Diversity at Middlebury

Robert Indiana's LOVE statue behind the Center For the Arts.

Diversity is important to us, as the class of 2003, for many reasons. In four years at Middlebury, we have come to see that some of our most important learning takes place outside of the classroom, when we come into contact with people and ideas very different from our own. We see the diversity that does not exist, the diversity that could exist and the diversity that has come to exist in our short time at Middlebury. This yearbook is a plea to each class that follows us to celebrate the diversity that we do have and to always continue to strive for a more culturally and ideologically diverse campus.

LOVE

The Four Angels

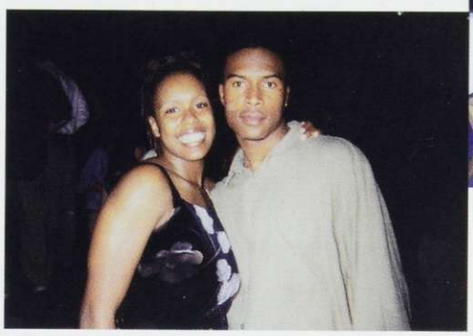
Anisa Gamble a native of St. Croix, was a vivacious dancer. She was also a hard-working student who intended to pursue a major focusing in finance. She was involved in the Quadrille and newly formed Riddim dance troupes. Known for her quiet grace, cooking, and sense of humor, Anisa also participated in Pan-Caribbean Student Organization and PALANA events.

Tiffany Holmes was a Posse Scholar from the Laguardia High School of Music, Art and Performing Arts in New York City. At Laguardia, she sang opera and won gold medals in the regional Science Olympiad. Tiffany planned to major in Mathematics or Philosophy at Middlebury. Her friends knew her as bright, funny and outgoing.

Iniko "Niko" Johnson came to Middlebury from Benjamin Banneker High School in Washington, D.C., where she sang in her church's youth choir and participated in Teens Against the Spread of AIDS. At Middlebury, Niko joined People Get Ready, the Gospel Choir, the Middlebury College Choir, and the new Chamber Choir. She was also a member of the newly formed Riddim dance troupe and worked in the Office of Academic Support. She planned to major in Mathematics, Theatre Arts or Dance.

Maika Prewitt never stopped smiling. She attended high school in Montana, but had lived in Saudi Arabia and traveled through Germany, Portugal, Denmark, Thailand, Kenya, and many other countries. At Middlebury, Maika worked for the Americans with Disabilities Act Office and was an avid violinist and ice skater. She participated in a program in McCullough that addressed issues of religious freedom and gay and lesbian rights and was in training for the National Coalition Building Institution.

A Love of Diversity



Niko and Maika at the Winter Carnival Ball (above). Maika and Mark Douglas '03 (left).

Yearbooks are as much about remembering happy times as they are about honoring events and people that impacted our lives and shaped our experiences. Our graduating class was uniquely and profoundly impacted by the deaths of four remarkable women in the spring of our freshman year. Middlebury gained from their time here, lost from their deaths, but overall strives to pursue and preserve an environment that honors their legacies and promotes their ideals.

Anisa and a friend outside Battell.

"When Maika and I were coupled up at the last Posse retreat, she had to be me and I had to be her…What did Maika do with her new insights into a gay white man's life? She participated in the program on religious freedom and gay and lesbian rights, and attended the NCBI workshop. That is how these women took what they learned to heart and acted on it. That is how they transformed this campus in just a couple of months." –Roman Graf, Associate Provost for Institutional Diversity

Embracing Differences in Ability

Every Middlebury student joins us with special needs and considerations. In fact, 1 in every 18 students at Middlebury has a disability that has been disclosed to the Americans with Disabilities Act Office. The ADA Office, now in its eighth year, serves students with disabilities including physical and mobility impairments, as well as learning, psychological and medical disabilities.

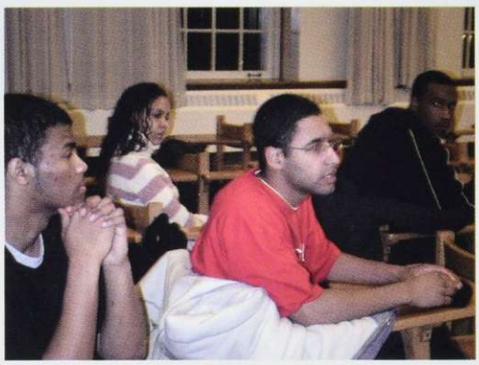
Accessibility Awareness Week

During the week of November 18-22, 2002, Biology professor David Parfitt's senior seminar, "Neural Disorders: Individuals, Families and Society," hosted "Accessibility Awareness Week" to support handicapped accessibility. February graduates Sarah LeFeber and Katie Samson helped the class develop their ideas into a series of events in which students and faculty could learn more about handicapped accessibility and also experience first hand the difficulties encountered by disabled people every day. Events included a panel discussion and "Wheelchair for a Day," where students and faculty experienced life at Middlebury from a physically disabled perspective. (Photo by David Carlson)



Juan Garcia '03 addresses the town meeting on Affirmative Action. Photo by Laura Erickson-Schroth

On February 14th, 2003 Middlebury joined a group of 28 other colleges to file a brief in defense of affirmative action. Middlebury's filing of this brief reflects our school's commitment to fostering a community that embraces diversity. Middlebury supports affirmative action and incorporates it into its admissions process because, as one author explained in the brief, "the best and brightest people are found in many places, not few; because our classrooms and residence halls are places of dialogue, not monologue; because teaching and learning at their best are conversations with persons other than ourselves about ideas other than our own." Middlebury's commitment to diversity is taken seriously among students and faculty alike. The filing of the brief sparked a debate among students over the benefits as well as the repercussions of institutions like affirmative action. Arguments for and against affirmative action were presented in the form of editorials to The Campus newspaper. Students came together in open forums to express their feelings over this complicated issue and what Middlebury's filing of the brief meant for the school.

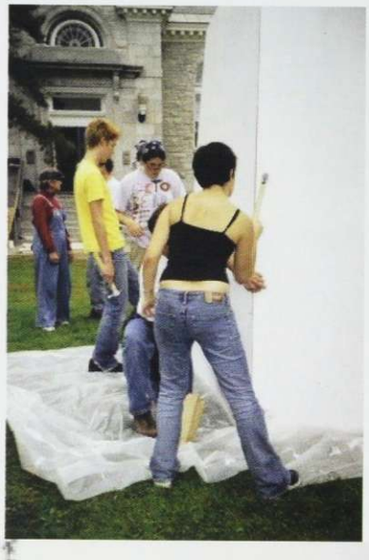
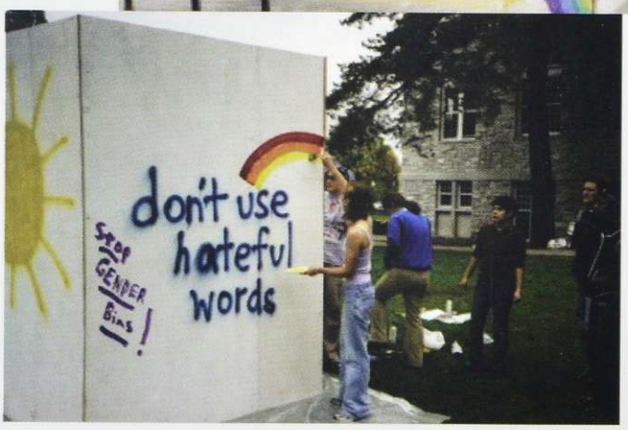
Diversity of Sexuality



Students paint the Closet for Coming Out Week.



The Middlebury Open Queer Alliance has been actively campaigning this year for a more embracing community. During "Coming Out Week" in the fall, members of MOQA and GLEAM, Gay and Lesbian Employees at Middlebury, built a symbolic "closet" to represent the way in which many gay and lesbian people are encouraged to keep their sexualities a secret. Unfortunately, the closet was vandalized. The motives behind the destruction of the closet were debated, but a common theme emerged. No matter the reason for the incident, it conveyed a disrespectful message that did not represent the commitment that the community as a whole has to the nurturing of diversity.

In March, MOQA organized "Visibility Week", during which students, faculty and other Vermont residents spoke out about issues of sexuality. On Sunday night, members of MOQA handed out free cookies, along with information about the week's events, in the Ross Dining Hall. As the week progressed, rainbow flags appeared all over campus, giving testament to the number of people who consider themselves allies to the queer community. Speakers during Visibility Week included Stan Baker, one of the plaintiffs in the Baker vs. Vermont Civil Union Case, Bill Lippert, the only openly gay representative in the Vermont legislature during the Civil Union debates, and Juana Rodriguez, author of Queer Latinidad. On Thursday, students participated in the Day of Silence, to recognize the silence that is imposed on gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender people every day. Later that day, a panel of student and faculty speakers addressed minority views on sexuality in a program titled "Undressing Sexuality."

Diversity Through Leadership

The class of 2003 is proud to have among its members the first graduating class of Posse, also known as "Posse 1." The Posse Foundation is a national program that identifies diverse and talented students who will contribute to the institutions they enter. The Posse program recruits student leaders from public high schools to form teams that spend eight months in training before they reach college. Posse Scholars are trained to promote dialogue amongst their peers and push for greater cultural diversity on their campuses. The PossePlus Retreat is a time for Posse students to invite friends and other members of the Middlebury community to spend a weekend getting to know people from all different backgrounds and participating in activities aimed at increasing campus dialogue on pertinent issues.

Diversity of Opinion

On October 13, 2002, Ari Fleischer '82, White House Press Secretary, came to Middlebury to receive the Alumni Achievement Award. His visit compelled Middlebury students and the broader community to express differing opinions on the imminent war with Iraq. The night of Fleischer's speech, protestors gathered on the Middlebury Green and made their way towards the college. While a packed Mead Chapel awaited what Fleischer had to say, hundreds of others stood outside in the rain to protest his visit to campus.

David Rosenberg, Professor of Political Science, speaks at the SGA War Discussion (left). Naomi Andrews '03, organizer of the event, presents the position of the Progressives (below).

The college suddenly became a forum for political discussion, which continued throughout the school year as The Campus was showered with editorials. In early March, as war loomed, the SGA organized a panel discussion that was widely attended. Students and professors voiced differing opinions about the conflict in Iraq.

During orientation week, incoming freshmen explore a variety of new experiences through "This is Vermont," Volunteer Preview, or a popular favorite, Middlebury Outdoor Orientation. MOO allows freshmen to enjoy the outdoors in beautiful Vermont. Trip leaders take students hiking, fishing, kayaking and rock climbing. MOO gives new students a way to bond and make new friends before classes begin.

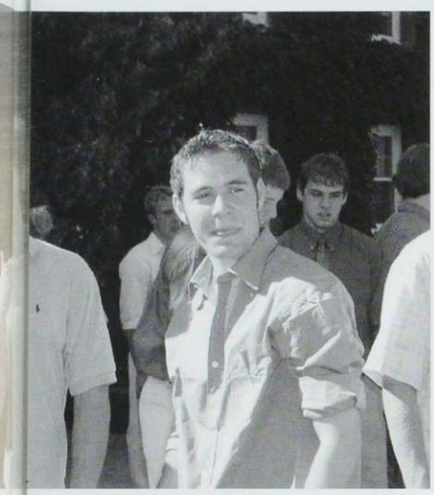
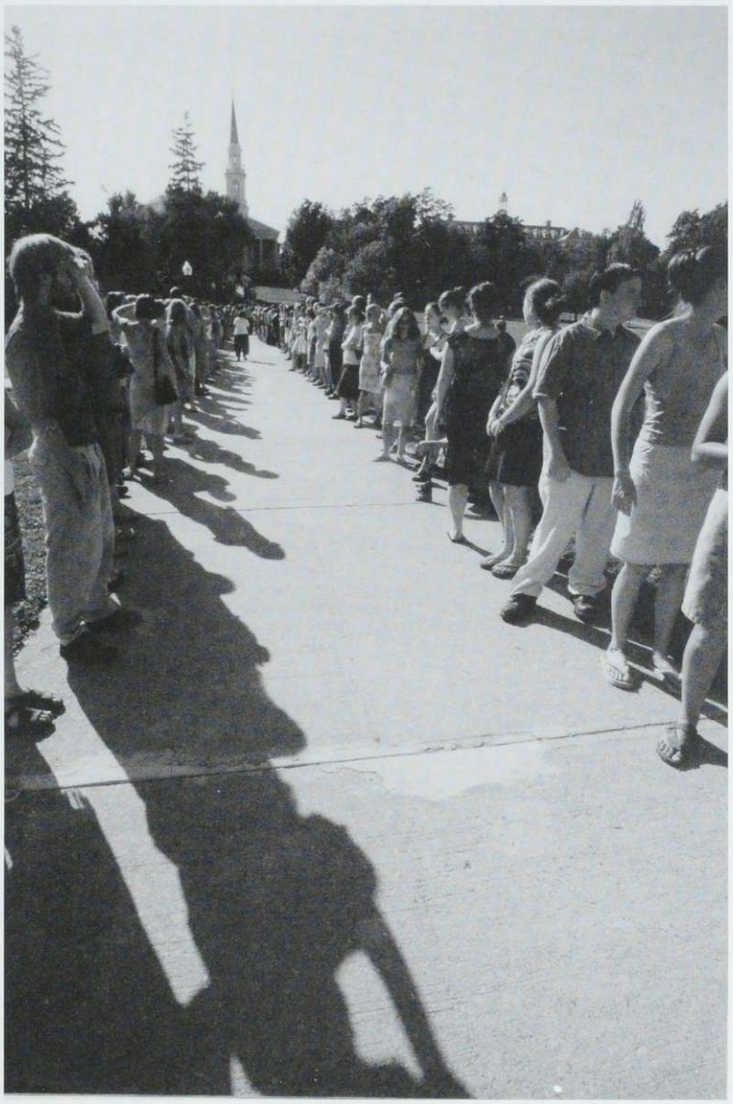
Convocation





Freshmen wait on the hill ascending towards Mead Chapel for what seems to be forever on this hot September Sunday, packed with students, professors, and deans of commons.

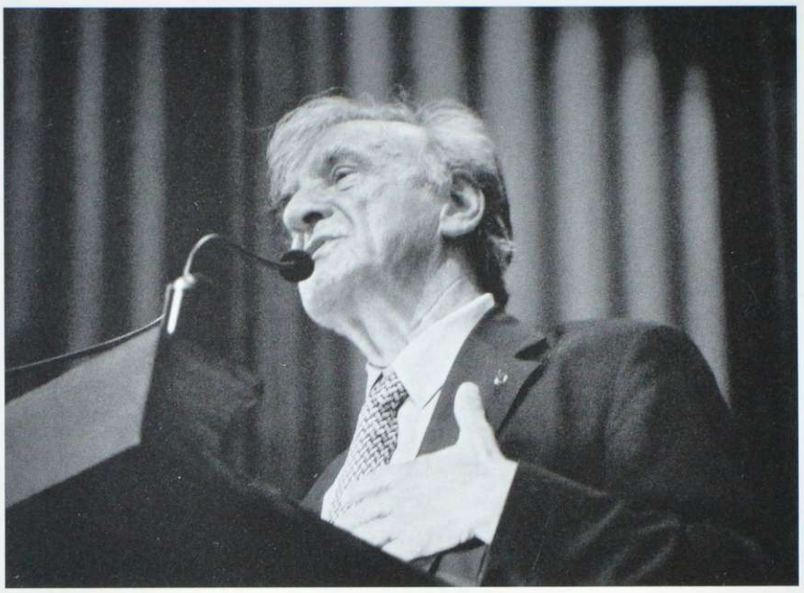
The Wonnacott group prepares to lead the way.

Convocation is a time when the new freshmen learn the traditions of Middlebury. An elaborate ceremony descibing the college's beliefs and expectations includes the passing of Gamaliel Painter's cane. Gamaliel Painter was a member of the early Middlebury College community. When he died in 1819, he left money to the college to help it progress. Middlebury renamed West College, a building that was built prior to Painter's death, in Painter's name. According to the Middlebury publicity office, Painter Hall is the oldest college building in Vermont.

This wonderful tradition is over two decades old. The next time freshmen see the cane is at their senior graduation.

Elie Wiesel

September 10, 2002



On September 10, 2002, Fulton Lecture speaker Elie Wiesel delivered a powerful speech about September 11, 2001. Mead Chapel was packed to full capacity. People were sprawled on the campus lawns in front of Mead Chapel listening to the famous author talk over loudspeakers.

Remembered

One year later, the campus remembered. A moment of silence at 8:46 a.m. was followed by the chiming of the Mead Chapel bells for a full minute. At 12:30 p.m., there was a memorial service held for the victims of the attacks, as well as members of the Middlebury community who lost friends and loved ones.

President McCardell and Ross Faculty Heads Katie and Steve Abbott cut the ribbon for the new Ross building, which includes LaForce dormitory and Ross Dining Hall. This building was dedicated during Septemberfest.

Every fall, Septemberfest allows Middlebury students, faculty, staff, and community to come together to eat good food, listen to good music, and relax. This year, Ross dining hall and LaForce dormitory were dedicated. Ross became the first commons on campus to be complete. Later that night, Dar Williams and Anais Mitchell '04 performed in McCullough social space.

Dishwashing Project

Al Barkin '04

The dishwashing project is a group of Middlebury student volunteers, sometimes joined by faculty and staff volunteers, who lend their time in the dining facilities. By doing so, members of the dishwashing staff are given a paid night off. Moreover, the dishwashing project facilitates bridges within the college community, gives back to and takes ownership of the place in which students live and work, and shows appreciation for those who, every day, make Middlebury the place it is. The dishwashing project is a continuous effort to get everyone in the student body involved and has included hundreds of different volunteers.

Eve Ensler '75, creator of the Vagina Monologues, received an honorary degree as a Doctor of Letters at this year's graduation for her work as the founder of V-Day, an organization that works to stop violence against women and girls. Each Valentine's Day, female Middlebury students perform their own version of the Vagina Monologues for the college community. The show is made up of a number of monologues from women on different issues relating to puberty, sexuality, violence and sexism, among other topics. It is a Valentine's Day hit for many students every year.

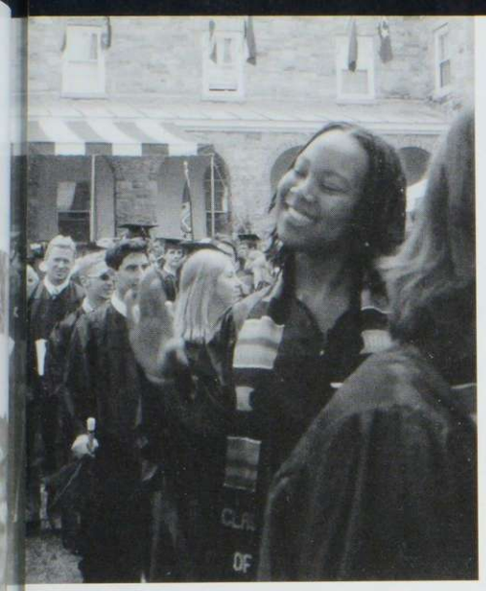
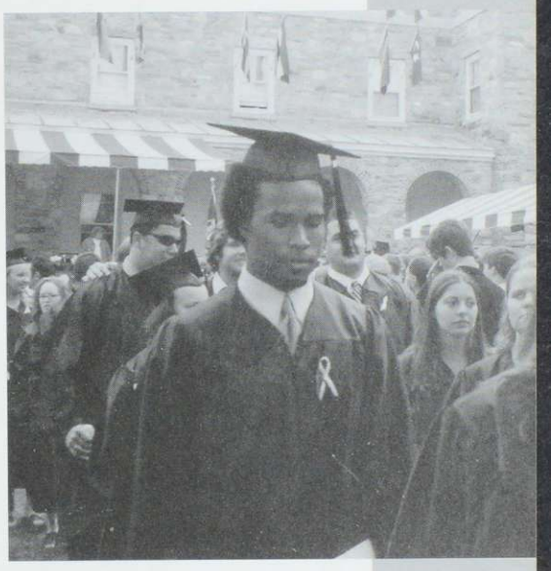
Commencement

Sunday, May 25

Despite the threat of rain, Commencement 2003 went smoothly. Among the honorary degree recipients was Eve Ensler '75, author of The Vagina Monologues and founder of V-Day, a global movement to stop violence against women and girls. Deborah Bial, founder and president of the Posse Foundation, also recieved an honorary degree for her work in promoting youth leadership development and college scholarship organization. Honorary degrees were also awarded to Frederic W. Allen, former Chief Justice of the Vermont Supreme Court, former Middlebury College trustee, and father of Zachariah Allen '03; David Herbert Donald, Professor of American History at Harvard University and author of numerous books; Julie Johnson Kidd '67, president of the Christian A. Johnson Endeavor Foundation in New York City, a nonprofit educational organization; and Ruth Stone, recipient of the 2002 National Book Award in Poetry.



Student speaker Brian McCurdy pieced together life's lessons through his experience with fly fishing. The Commencement Address was given by Governor Bill Richardson of New Mexico, who combined wit, humor and style with his take on the graduate's role in international affairs. He encouraged students to take a stand and gave advice on energy policy and the war in Iraq.



Throughout the ceremony, many graduates wore white ribbons in honor of Anisa Gamble, Tiffany Holmes, Maika Prewitt and Iniko Johnson, four women in the class of 2003 who passed away in the spring of 2000. A moment of silence was observed in their memory. Many students also wore green ribbons as a symbol of their graduation pledge to be ecologically and socially conscious as they enter the workforce.

Kappa Delta Rho was unded by George E. Kimball on ay 17, 1905 in Room 14 of inter Hall. By 1919, KDR had olved into a national fraternity. In 89, KDR preceded the college's andate to go coeducational and tended the brotherhood to omen. As a result, the National aternity revoked Middlebury's arter for a period of seven years, fore finally readmitting KDR as Alpha chapter. Today there are ty seven active chapters of KDR ross the United States.

In addition to throwing the nual Marriage, Rhodeo and Pig ast parties, this year KDR has o participated in a variety of

The members of Xenia, Middlebury's only substance-free social house, seek to create an atmosphere in which students can socialize without the presence of substances. Since Xenia moved in the Fall of 2000, Bowker House has been a place students can come to avoid the typical social scene, to enjoy each others' company and build friendships, and to help to provide a niche for every student in Middlebury's diverse community.

Zeta Theta Phi

Zeta Theta Phi plays an integral role in the social life of many students at Middlebury College. Aside from hosting several large scale social gatherings and parties each year, ZOO membership is involved in community service initiatives, trips to cities, and donating funds for events and guests at the College. ZOO strives to create a fun and relaxing environment for students to take a break from the rigors that face them during each semester.

brainerd COMMONS

The Brainerd Commons community enjoyed a packed schedule of both entertaining and academic events this year. There was something for everyone. Brainerd athletes enjoyed running a half-marathon in Waterbury, Vermont this fall, and skiing several of the Vermont peaks this winter on ski trips sponsored by the Council. Brainerd art lovers came out in full force at the Coffee House in October, displayed their talents in the pumpkin carving contest, and frequented the CFA concert series sponsored by the Brainerd Faculty Heads. Brainiacs found time to compete in Brainerd game nights featuring Trivial Pursuit, Cranium, and Pictionary and an intelligent few represented the Commons in the College Quiz Bowl. Brainerd city kids enjoyed getting away from rural Vermont one weekend in March on a Brainerd NYC excursion in coordination with New York Alum. The trip included a walking tour of Lower Manhattan and dinner at Middlebury Trustee, Paula Cummings' home in Bronxville, New York. Brainerd's weekly Wednesday night BuRP dinners were a treat for students and faculty/staff affiliates alike and included special dessert bars, musical entertainment, contests, and door prizes. Of course the year wouldn't be complete without some wild and crazy dance parties, and Brainerd certainly filled its quota each term sponsoring a Proctor "Crush" Dance Party, a James Bond Semi-Formal, and a Beach Dance Party. Brainerd's "Spring Fling" Week, including a BBQ, dance, and many other activities, ended the year with a bang.

Hoskins (CRA)

In the words of Cook CRA Sean Hoskins, this year Cook Commons has been "an event powerhouse." Cook Commons put up a heck of a Fall Festival with the Keepers and the Mountain Club, a human rights symposium, a Sufi healing workshop, helped bring Scott Ritter to Middlebury, and rocked out with the Mates of State. All in the fall. January saw another successful MiddKid for a Day, Juan Pena and Dan Donnelly battled it out in the kitchen with Cook's first Iron Chef, as well as a boisterous Prom III – Hit Me Baby One More Time, during which much merriment was made, licitly and otherwise. By spring semester, Cook Commons showed no signs of slowing down. Vermont Senator James Jeffords spoke to a packed Mead Chapel, a human rights film festival was put on by Cook's own Juan Pena, there were coffee houses with Dan Polifka, and an environmental architect came to speak. In the first ever Inter-Commons College Bowl, freshman Brian Daly led the B2N Bombers to victory with the help of Monster Memory Franco Cicconi, bringing both fame and glory to Cook Commons. None of these events would have been possible without the help of a kickass council. Kate Moffett has been invaluable as the aesthetic advertising chair, and Juan Pena's event creation and participation was a large part of Cook's "event powerhouse" status. And of course no small parts were played by JS Woodward (Environmental Liason), or Dan Polifka and Elizabeth Schaumberg (Battell reps). Cook's confidence in its success next year mitigates the all-around sadness felt at having to see this years tri-chairs step down. Ben Hayes, Scott Palmer, and Kristen Smart have lead the council with grace and style.

What a year for Ross Commons! The year began with the opening and dedication of the new Ross Dining Hall and the Laforce Senior residence Hall. The finale of the Ross Grand Opening Celebration was a concert by popular Singer/Songwriter Dar Williams and Middlebury's Anais Mitchell, followed by a Dance party in the new Ross Social Space. On Novemeber 1st, Ross began the Friday tradition of Senior Cocktail hour in the new Ross Fireplace Lounge. This event became a favorite for both faculty affiliates and students because of its relaxed atmosphere and mature feel. Towards the end of the month, Milliken 5 organized a spectacular Thanksgiving Dinner for their hall in the Deanery.

Second semester began in February with the "Mary Smyth Duffy Restrspective" honoring and remembering her life and her work. Also during February, Katy and Steve Abbott brought Painter Eric Hesse to Middlebury, and Baz organized a Lip-Sync Contest which was a huge sucess, if not a little scandalous. As the year came to a close, Ross RA Craig Pittman and Faculty Head Steve Abbott helped everyone refine their ettiquette skills at a Bowtie Tie-ing workshop. Spring finally came to Middlebury (much later than expected) and the year came to a close. Rossers took off for the summer after a great year of adventures, fun and lots of learning.

This year has been a busy and successful one for Wonnacott Commons due to a fun combination of old and new events. Fondue Friday, apple picking, the first-year Vermonster eating contest and the senior champagne brunch were among the many events carried over from years past. In addition to long-standing events, Wonnacott ventured into new territory as well. Notably, they held a karaoke night once a month, had two Wonnacott sponsored and themed Dolci nights, and started a music series entitled "Wonnacott Presents…" bringing in two bands from the Boston area. The biggest event of the year, another original one, was Global Rhythms, an evening of international flavors (food) and entertainment. All of the acts were performed by students, and they included Indian dance, bluegrass music, Irish dance, Brazilian music and East African song.

Finally, in continuing a concept from last year, Wonnacott Commons offered its residents the opportunity to apply for WonnaGrants for modest funding for independent projects, senior work or internships. This year was a very successful and exciting year for WonnaGrants, as there were a wide variety of projects and interests. A few examples of the projects funded were a senior architectural design project of a potential school in Hawaii, an internship with the television show The Shield, senior thesis research in France, and a Winter Term internship at an orphanage in India.

Women's Soccer

Amanda Green '03.5

Leah Cumsky-Whitlock '03

The 2002 Middlebury Women's Soccer season was a bit of a rebuilding year, filled with ups and downs, due to the graduation of seven senior starters in the spring. Preseason brought several rookies who contributed to the success of this season. Freshman Caitlan Fabian, who was awarded "Rookie of the Year" in post season, was a solid force as the starting sweeper. Season highlights included a solid win over top ranked Williams, and a tie with top ranked Tufts. Middlebury ranked first at the end of the season for goals scored in the conference, an honor which seniors captain Meg Bonney and Leah Cumsky-Whitlock contribited to greatly by breaking the school scoring and assisting records respectively. Senior Captains Britt Kittelsen and Anna Gayman were also among the top scorers this season. After making the NESCAC conference playoffs, the season ended abruptly with a loss to Williams in the first round. Solid starting back Erica Martling and starting stopper Michaela Deitz were injured unexpectedly just before playoffs. However, the season as a whole ended on a positive note with a record of 8-4-3. Post season All-Conference honors went out to seniors Leah Cumsky-Whitlock, Britt Kittelsen, and Meg Bonney. Bonney also received All-New England honors. With the graduation of five starting seniors, some leadership will be missed, but will be filled by next year's elected captains Amanda Green and Michaela Deitz.

Women's JV Soccer

A tragic goal with three seconds left in the NESCAC Semifinal was an unfair ending to a great season by the 2002 Middlebury men's soccer team. The Panthers carried a six-game unbeaten run into the semifinal match against Williams, playing their best soccer of the year before luck defied the team after thoroughly outplaying the Ephs. The season started off inauspiciously, as the team had a loss and two ties in its first five games, and lost starting goalkeeper Craig Hirsh '04 for the season during the fifth game. Middlebury continued to struggle for the next four games, with two wins and two losses, before finally finding its rhythm. Carrying a record of 4-3-2 into the rematch against Norwich, the Panthers came away with a 4-0 win and did not look back. Four more wins and Middlebury was in charge the entire game. Kyle Dezotell '03 scored with under five minutes left to take a 1-0 lead. The game seemed to be over, but Williams equalized on a fluke with three seconds remaining, and then took the win in overtime. Despite the anticlimactic ending, the team was able to look back on a good season. Dezotell had made history by becoming the school's all-time points leader after scoring twice and earning an assist against Norwich, and then broke the goals record in the final regular season match against Connecticut College with perhaps his best goal ever: a left-footed rocket into the top corner from 40 yards. Dezotell finished his career with 34 goals and 21 assists, and earned a first-team All-NESCAC nomination. Also receiving a first team honor was junior co-captain Jason Griffiths, who anchored a strong defensive line all season. Co-captain Todd Maloney '03 and Patrick Saunders '04 made the second team, both contributing to the excellent defense and winning every 50-50 ball in the middle of the field. Sophomore David Lindholm's play earned five shutouts over the course of the season.

The field hockey team solidified its position as one of the top teams in the country with seven post-season appearances in the 90's. The '98 team captured the NCAA Championship with an impressive 17-1 record. The team also made NCAA Tournament appearances in '94 and '96, while capturing the ECAC Championship in '93 and '97. Last year, the Panthers claimed the top seed in the '01 NESCAC Tournament. The team boasts a 98-43-3 record over the past eight seasons, and has produced 35 All-Americans since '85 This season was strong and exciting. With a solid group of freshmen, there was a deep bench, which allowed everyone sufficient playing time. Middlebury outshot its opponents 52 to 27. Char Glessner, Kate Perine, and rookie Allison Smith were the top three leading scorers, with season points amounting to 32, 19, and 16 respectively. However, the team's final record was 10-6, with close losses to Bowdoin, Keene State, Connecticut College, and Williams in overtime.

Football

The 2002 Middlebury Football season started with high hopes, a strong senior class and several returning starters. The team suffered a heartbreaking fourth-quarter loss to Wesleyan in which Tom Cleaver made his dramatic comeback scoring two touchdowns. The second week was payback time, as the team traveled to Waterville to battle the Colby Mules. Stepping up in the starting role as quarterback, Jim Muhlfeld led the team to victory, completing the longest pass of the season. Hosting Amherst in the third week, Middlebury suffered a second heartbreaking loss. Marching down to Williamstown in search of redemption, Middlebury put up more points than any other opponent, but still suffered a last minute loss, despite the efforts of senior captain Patrick Allen. Lifting up their heads, they hosted Bates during homecoming weekend, and marched off the field victorious in front of alumni, friends and family. With a 2-3 record, they traveled to Hartford to encounter a well-prepared Trinity team. Following a decimating injury to senior captain Romulo Braga, the Bantams found a hole in the Panthers' defense to kill the clock and secure victory. The turning point in the season came in the next week in preparation for Hamilton. Following days of intense practice led by captains Andrew Angoff and Christopher Davis, they marched to victory behind senior tailback Bill Lazzarro, who had over 150 yards rushing. The season culminated at Alumni Stadium, where the team secured its fourth and final win of the season behind the catching and rushing of senior Denver Smith, who had 212 yards for the day and became the all-time leading receiver. The Panthers finished with their best performance of the year, leaving behind a great tradition in the making.

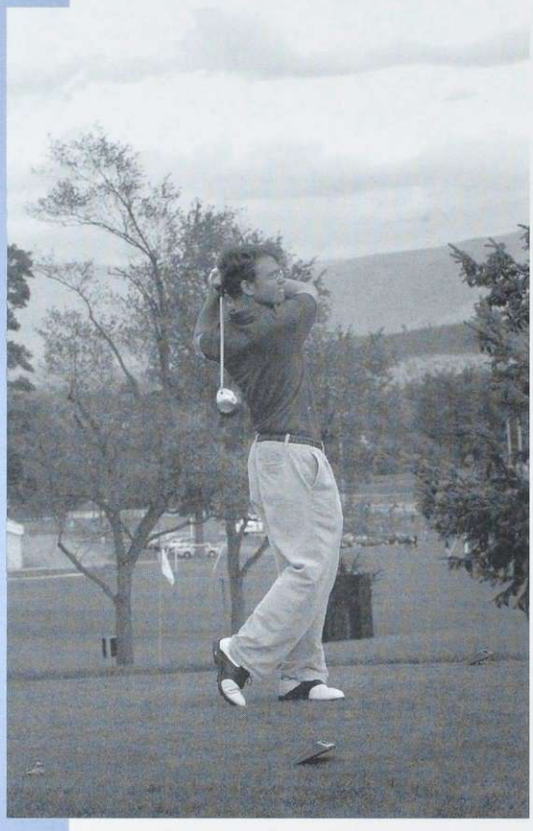
Men's Golf



The Men's Golf team enjoyed a highly successful season this fall. With seniors Damon Gacicia, Ryan Simper, and Brad Tufts leading the way, the Panthers collected three tournament victories, including the Skidmore College Fall Classic, the Williams College Eph Classic, and the 2002 NESCAC Championship. The Fall season marked the culmination of four years of hard work and dedication for the players, and it was marked by a number of prolific individual performances and team accomplishments. Bringing home the NESCAC Championship in a one stroke victory over arch-rival Williams College allowed this group of seniors to graduate with conference bragging rights. The Panthers chalked up a victory in the Williams College Eph Classic in record fashion, posting what has been reported as the best score in school history. Gacicia and Tufts each carded rounds of 72, while Simper and junior Chuck Clement contributed 74s to the team score of 292. Notable individual accomplishments from the season include Damon Gacicia taking home tournament medalist honors from the Skidmore Fall Classic, and Brad Tufts earning the 2002 New England Division III title. Overall, the 2002 fall campaign proved to be the most memorable for the graduating seniors. Gacicia, Simper, Tufts, and the rest of the Panther golfers worked together with coaches Beaney and Phinney every step of the way in their four years to make the golf program both enjoyable and competitive. In the end, these goals were achieved in a fashion that will ensure that golf at Middlebury remains a fond memory for years to come.

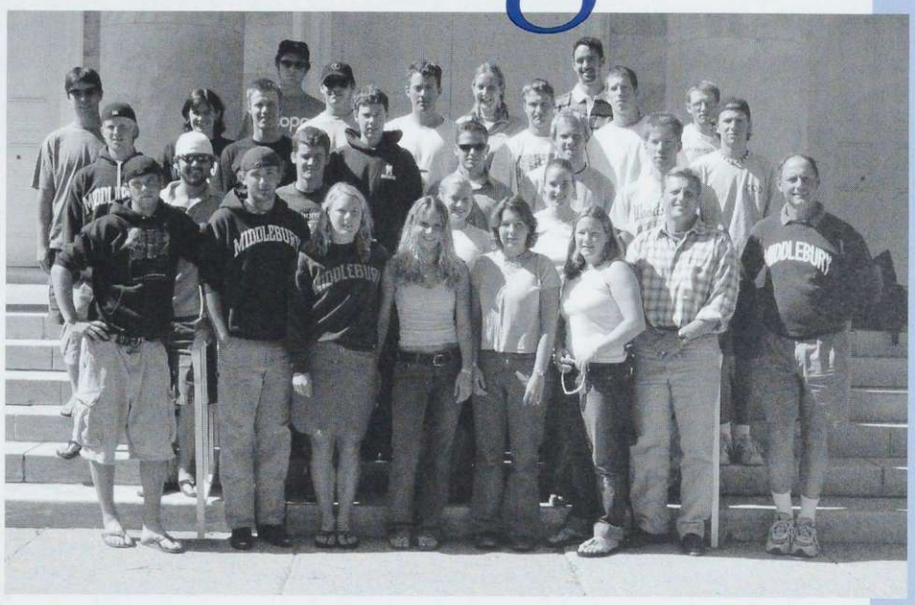
Alpine & Nordic Skiing

Women's Alpine

In her third season at Middlebury, Laura Scripture proved to be a vital member of the Women's team, scoring consistent top ten results in both G.S. and S.L. throughout the season. After a semester abroad in New Zealand where Scripture trained and raced at Mt. Hutt, she returned prepared to dominate the eastern collegiate circuit. Scripture raced to an impressive fourth place finish at the Middlebury Snow Bowl and earned All American status at the NCAA championships. Jess Smith also returned from a semester off, and although she struggled in the early season to lay down two solid runs, she was the third fastest woman in the G.S at Middlebury Carnival, and secured the women's team their first podium result. Nina Porcelli returned to Middlebury this season after ACL reconstruction. After a 15th place finish at the UVM carnival, Nina established herself as a valuable scorer for the Panther women. After Brie Pike-Sprenger was sidelined with an injury to her foot, she returned for the 2003 season. With a 9th place finish at the UNH carnival, she fortified her position on the team. Molly Russell, an energetic force, dominated the field, finishing an impressive 13th at the Middlebury Carnival. Freshman Jenn Higgins and Ramsey Hill completed the Women's team. Together the Panther women struggled in the early season. However, a second place finish at UVM hinted at the results that were to come. At Middlebury Carnival, with the aid of the Women's Nordic team, the Panther women reclaimed the Rikert Cup for the second consecutive year, defeating the UVM Wildcats. With no graduating seniors, the women look to be a strong force in the upcoming season.

Women's Nordic

A young team of skiers led the Middlebury Women's Nordic team to a great season. After vigorous training in the fall, led by sophomores Diana Johnson and Tyne Pike Springer, the small group combined forces with four returning juniors to compete on a competitive carnival circuit. The women's team consistently placed in the top three or four but held out for a first place finish with the women's alpine at Middlebury Carnival. Freshman Claire Anderson led the team in first place on a 5K skate, while Diana Johnson took 5th, followed by captain Kate Newick in 7th and Kate Whitcomb in 9th. In the 15K classic, Newick took 6th, Johnson 10th, and Taylor Leach 14th. The team finished off the season sending two racers to NCAAs.



Men's Nordic

The Men's ski team finished high throughout the year, often paced by junior Colin Rodgers. Rodgers was consistently Top-5 in the East, with several podium finishes. Freshman sensation Garrott Kuzzy also had many standout performances, including three podium finishes. One of the highlights of the year was a victory in the 3x5 km relay at Williams Carnival, in which Rodgers, Kuzzy, and senior captain Tim Weston beat national powerhouse UVM in a photo-finish. Individual accolades go to Rodgers, Kuzzy, Weston, and senior Simon Isaacs. Isaacs earned Academic All-American, Rodgers and Kuzzy both earned All-East honors, and Weston achieved the coveted All-American title for his 9th place finish at the NCAA championships.

Men's Alpine

The Men's Alpine team saw one of its most successful seasons in Middlebury history, made possible by consistent veteran skiing and great results from this year's freshmen. From the very first race in Ottawa Canada, the Men's team had national powerhouses University of Vermont and Dartmouth on their heels. John Rusten followed up his All-American freshmen year with consistent top 3 skiing. Newcomer Dave Coriell posted solid top 10 results all year long. Freshmen Josh Transue came to Middlebury from the U.S. Ski Team and contributed top ten results all season. Eric Rygg began the season with solid top ten results, but leaped onto the podium at the UVM carnival. A fifth place finish in the NCAA slalom gave Rygg All-American honors along with Coriell who was 10th in the Giant Slalom.The Men's success took them to the U.S National Championships at Whiteface, and Rygg and Rusten proved that they could compete with some of the best. Rusten posted a 14th in the giant slalom and Rygg skied to tenth in the slalom. Both Rygg and Rusten were shown on ESPN when the network aired the championship in April.

The 2002-2003 Middlebury Women's Basketball team finished the season with a 12-13 overall record. The Panthers struggled more than usual against some opponents, but still fought impressively in the highly competitive NESCAC Conference. Middlebury began the season winning the Wellesley Invitational Tournament, and finished with their third straight appearance in the NESCAC Tournament. Senior captains Wesley Hyatt, Katie Shutte and Kristin Hanley led the team. The women will return a seasoned core of upperclassmen as well as a strong sophomore class.

The Men's Basketball team delivered a feat with its largest win total in years, finishing the season 15-10. They were a high-powered offense, setting school records for total points and points per game. The season was marked by landmark victories at Hamilton along with two NESCAC sweeps over Colby, Bowdoin, Tufts, and Bates. The season started strong with a win at Hamilton, the first road win against Hamilton in over 25 years. The success continued as the team won the Ed Hockenbury Classic, defeating Norwich with sophomore Adam Sinoway earning tournament MVP. The team struggled and suffered a close loss to RPI and a loss at Trinity that left the team 0-3 in the league. The team responded with a victory against Colby, and Nate Anderson provided the best individual performance of the season, registering 34 points and earning NESCAC Player of the Week. Late in the season, the team solidified their postseason positioning with victories against Tufts and Bates. The season ended with a loss at Tufts, closing the career on Middlebury's lone senior, Eric Bundonis, who finished with over 800 points and spent two years as Captain. Nate Anderson was named second team all--NESCAC as he led the team in scoring and rebounding. Junior Co-Captain David Coratti provided a defensive effort and had to shut down the opposition's top player. The team also had strong contributions from a deep and talented sophomore class that provided the Panthers with one of the deepest benches in the league.

Women's Ice Hockey

Middlebury Women's Ice Hockey proved again that they were a team comprised of incredible talent, dedication, and character. The first-year class provided great depth to the team while the upperclassmen set the tone for a successful year. During the season, the women held Division I Cornell to a shootout and came in third in the annual Concordia tournament in Canada. They continued their hard work and by the end of the season, reclaimed their number one title as Division III NESCAC Champions when they beat undefeated Bowdoin, 4-0 in Maine. Angela Kapus and Amber Neil were both named to the First Team All-NESCAC as well as First Team All-American. Kapus was also named NESCAC and Division III Player of the Year. Middlebury will be graduating only four seniors and will return as a mighty force in the NESCAC league.

Swimming & Diving

Women's Swimming

The women's swim team completed an exciting and successful season, finishing 6-2 in regular season competition and surpassing last year's standing by placing an outstanding second at the NESCAC championship meet. Due to a tremendous taper, nearly everyone improved their times in almost every event. Seniors Jaylene Orange, Kristen Watson, Carrie MacDonald, and Alyson Lipsky finished their seasons with great performances and made it back to finals, while Sarah Schaffer and Karen Johnson swam career bests by breaking the minute barrier for the 100 free. Due to hard work and fast swimming, eight women qualified to compete at the NCAA championships at Emory University. Though the season was met with many challenges along the way, the fabulous memories shared on the women's swim team prevailed as the "Middlebury Magic" kept the team psyched and ready to swim fast.

Men's Swimming

A memorable season for the men's swim team would be the last hurrah for Ricky Barfuss, Stephen Kinney and Andrew Sterling. As the season progressed, times were rough and the team grew closer. The culmination of this season rested on NESCACs. This year, although the team was shorthanded due to injuries sustained by diver Tris Arscott and sophomore Mark Hannigan, the Middlebury men made a strong showing. Three school records fell to the 2002-2003 team. The 200 medley relay was set by Kinney, Jason Korsmeyer, David Hawkins and Matthew Clark, who went on to compete at NCAA Championships. The 1,000 free and 1,650 free records were set by Rob Hillas.

Women's Softball

The Middlebury softball team enjoyed its best season in school history this year. The Panthers, in only their 6th year of existence, earned their first ever placement in the NESCAC tournament. The team improved significantly on last year's 12-17 record by going 17-14 overall, including a record-setting eleven game winning streak. Junior Christina Freyer finished at the top of the record books with a batting average of .433, followed by sophomore Lauren Guza, who batted .400. Sophomore pitcher Megan McCarthy dominated the mound with an ERA of 1.74 and a total of 55 strikeouts for the season. Incredible leadership from senior captains Laura Legere and Kelly Slack, supported by seniors Lindsay Ladd and Andrea Russo, helped drive the Panthers to unprecedented success this season.

The Women's Tennis team enjoyed successful fall and spring seasons. The fall season was highlighted by important wins over NESCAC rivals Wesleyan and Colby. In the spring, the Panthers won four out of five matches over spring break in Hilton Head, SC. Additionally, many of the players defeated top ranked opponents from Tufts and Amherst in individual and team tournaments. Due to success throughout the year, the team advanced to the NCAA tournament for the first time in history, where they suffered a hard-fought loss to a top-ranked Tufts team.

The Men's Tennis team went into the regular season with high expectations. After a challenging spring break schedule in California, the team returned to New England and went undefeated in NESCAC play. The men played stellar matches, defeating National Champion Williams in a sound 6-1 effort and grabbing close wins over perennial powerhouses Tufts and Bowdoin. They finished a close second at the NESCAC tournament. Going into the post-season, Middlebury was ranked #1 in the region and #3 nationally. They hosted the regional NCAA tournament for the second straight year and secured a first round bye. With a 4-3 victory over Bates, Middlebury earned a place in the quarterfinals of the National Tournament to be played in Minnesota at Gustavus Adolphus University. The men lost to Washington University of St. Louis 4-1.

Men's Lacrosse

The Middlebury Men's Lacrosse team entered the 2003 season having captured its third straight NCAA National Championship title. The team steadily came together throughout the season and became a well balanced unit. There was one early season loss to Gettysburg College, but the Panthers bounced back and entered a 13-game winning streak. For the third consecutive season, the team won the NESCAC Championship and qualified for the NCAA tournament. After battling Springfield College in the first round of NCAAs, the men came out victorious. Their quarterfinal win against Nazareth sent them to Cortland to win again with a second overtime period. However, the Panthers' season ended with a 13-14 overtime loss to Salisbury in the NCAA Championship game. Middlebury trailed 10-4 in the contest before coming back to eventually take the lead. The loss ended the Panthers' three-year reign as NCAA Champions, with a 17-2 record. The game was played before a crowd of over 10,000 fans at Ravens Stadium in Maryland.

Seven on the line at the annual Clambake Tournament in Maine

Colin Davis going deep in Georgia

The 2002-2003 season marked the 25th anniversary for the Middlebury Pranksters.They suffered a few setbacks in the form of injuries, bad weather and the graduation of several key players, but had a great year overall and are prepared with a strong core of players for the next few years. The fall season was highlighted by back to back Callahan scores against Yale Superfly, the formation of a new rivalry with Team "let me out of my cage" Texas, and of course, The Best Play Ever against long time rival Williams. The Pranksters had a lot of great games, but were eliminated in the sectional tournament. They worked hard throughout the long winter in preparation for the Spring season. Three tournaments were cancelled in the spring due to rain and snow conditions, which made it difficult to stay in top form, but the Pranksters managed to pull together at sectionals, which were held at Middlebury College for the first time ever. Middlebury was eventually eliminated from regionals, but not before giving two Nationals contenders a good run for their money.

Student Artwork

In order to be art, art has to be about ideas. And in order to be about ideas, it has to be about NEW ideas. This ties art to the time in which it is created, and it makes all art, even cave painting, contemporary art, that is, contemporary to the time it was created.

"You are graduating to a new stage in your life...and we know that those things to come will echo the kindness, virtue, individuality, and special thoughtfulness that you have shown over and over again in your life and in everything you have done till now. The sheer fact of your being made him so happy...I like to think of Dad as he causally gloats to others around him, "That's my daughter"... I see a man so proud of what things have come that he is bursting to tell all the angels and saints in heaven how truly special his little girl is." A.A.S.M. 4/11/1999

We love you and we are so very proud of you.
Mom and Andrew

Meaghan

Thank you for being the daughter we always hoped for,
The sister a brother can count on,
A friend others depend on,
And a woman we are all proud of.

All our love,

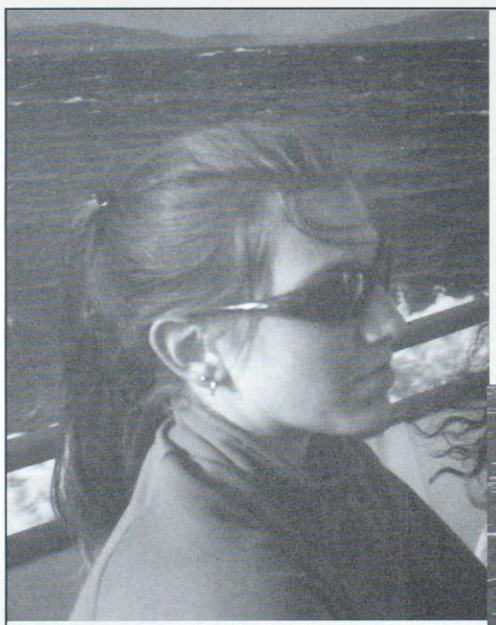
Dad, Mom, and Jeff

FRED

Great job! We are all so proud of you. You will always cherish your years at Middlebury. Use your talents and this great education to do what we always knew you would: make the world a better place.

All our love,

Mom, Dad, Stephen, and Gregory



NORA-BEAN!!

Shimmering dewdrops

Soft ocean breezes
A sapphire among the rocks!

Congratulations!
We love you,
Dad, Mom, Leah, Luna

TINA!

We are so proud of you. Here's to a beautiful mind and a wonderful future!

Congratulations and love,

Mom, Dad, Nick, and Ali

LYCKA TILL!

MOON-CATCHIN' NET

I've made me a moon-catchin' net
And I'm goin' huntin' tonight,
I'll run along singin' it over my head,
And grab that big ball of light.

So tomorrow just look at the sky,
And if there's no moon you can bet
I've found what I sought and I finally caught
The moon in my moon-catchin' net.

But if the moon is still shinin' there,
Look close underneath and you'll get
A clear look at me in the sky wingin' free,
With a star in my moon-catchin' net.

Shel Silverstein, A Light in the Attic

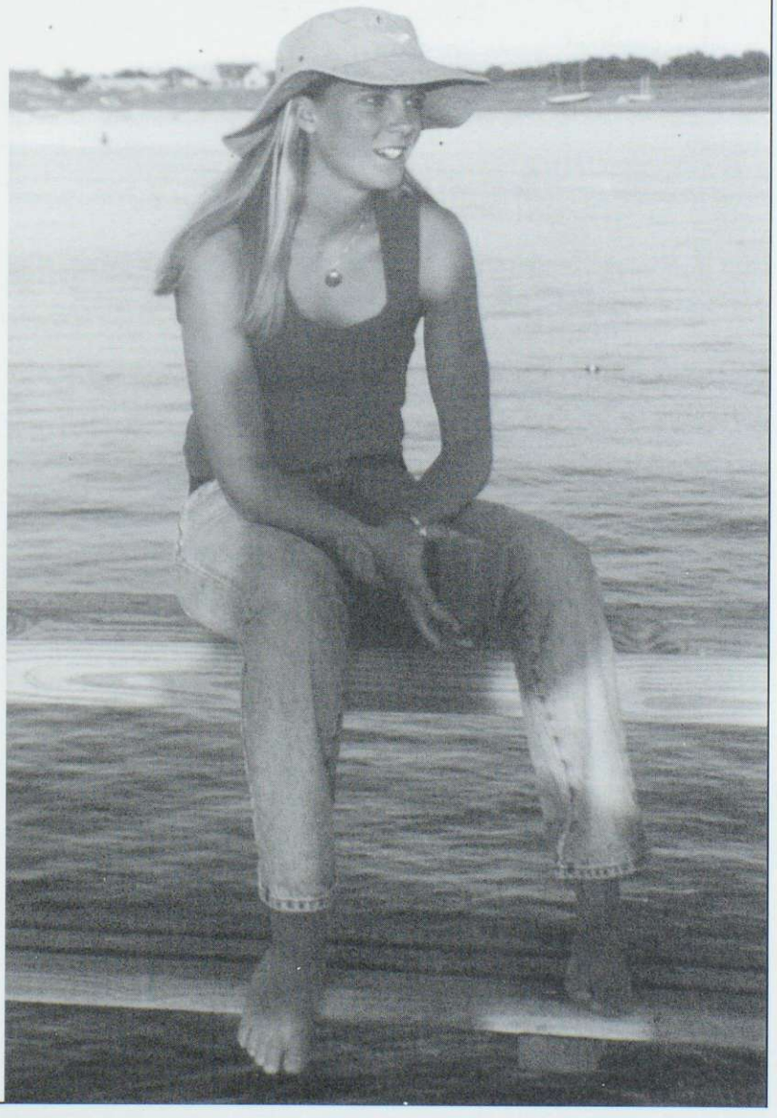
PS: Poem selected by Mom with love.



Congratulations, Sadie!

"Happy trails to you!"

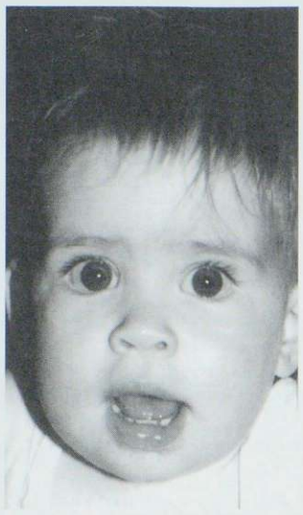
Love,

Mom, Dad, and Noah

Dear Jamie,

You are one in a million. We are so proud of you and your accomplishments. Congratulations and good luck in all your future endeavors.

With love from Mom, Dad, Grandma, Danielle, Jeff, Harry and Sam



With great pride
and much love,
Mom, Dad and Davis

CONGRATULATIONS CRYSTALYN !

You have always set high goals and exceeded them.
For you, the journey has been just as important as the destination.

You act with integrity, value your relationships and move through the world with dignity and grace.

You have enriched our lives
more than you will ever know.

Love,

From All of Your Family

"You just call out my name
And you know wherever I am
I'll come running to see you again.
Winter, spring, summer or fall
All you gotta do is call
And I'll be there, yes I will,
You got a friend."

--James Taylor

Thanks so much to everyone who taught me the most important lessons.
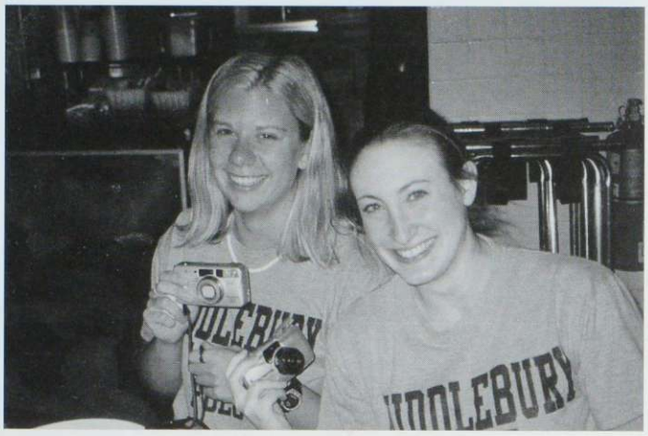
Without you I would have never found me.
--Crystalyn

JOB WELL DONE...
& IT WAS FUN!!!



Jen

You continue to make us proud in everything you do.

Love,

Mom, Dad, Ann, Grammie, Nana, and Papa

Congratulations, Anna!

We're so proud of you!

Treasure all your meaningful friendships and wonderful memories of Middlebury.

We love you,

Dad, Mom, Auggie, and Adrian

"Beware the Jabberwock, my son!
The jaws that bite, the claws that catch!
Beware the Jubjub bird, and shun
The frumious Bandersnatch!"

Dear Sarah,

What fabulous years these have been: three at Middlebury and one in Dublin! Congratulations for making the most of your college years. Our prayers and best wishes support you as you move on to new ventures. We love you with all our hearts.

Mom, Dad, and Chris

To Emily Van Doren,
in celebration of your graduation!

Daughters do wonderful things.
Not the wonderful things you expected them to do.
Different things.
Astonishing things.
Better than you ever dreamed.

--Marion C. Garretty

With love and congratulations from Dad, Mom and Rebecca

WAY TO GO, B!

WE ARE SO PROUD OF YOU AND ALL THAT YOU HAVE ACCOMPLISHED DURING YOUR TIME AT MIDDLEBURY!

LOVE, MOM, DAD, AND JAKE

Now that's a really "Early Decision." We're glad you made it!

Congratulations,

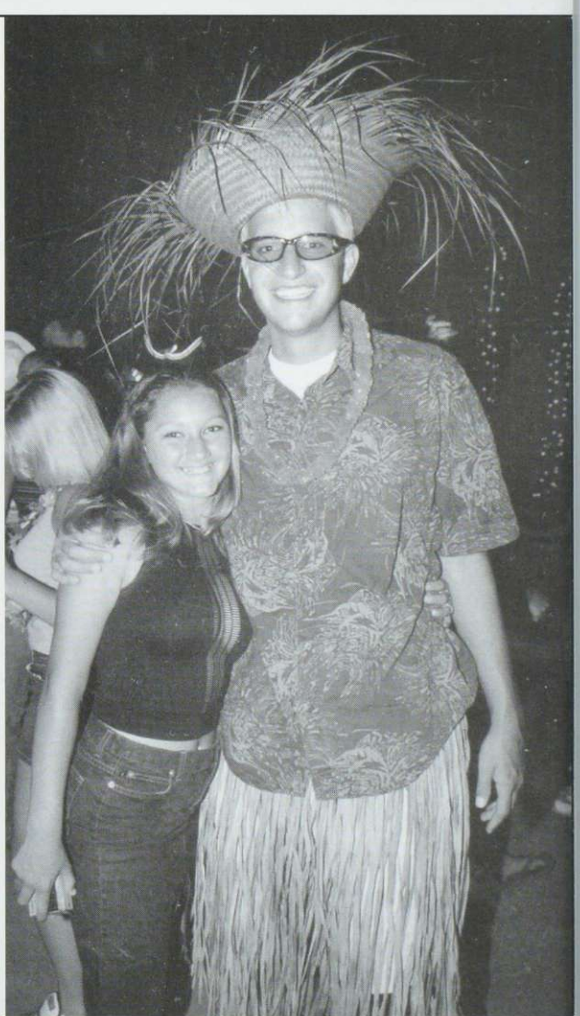
Dad, Mom, Tom, and Matt

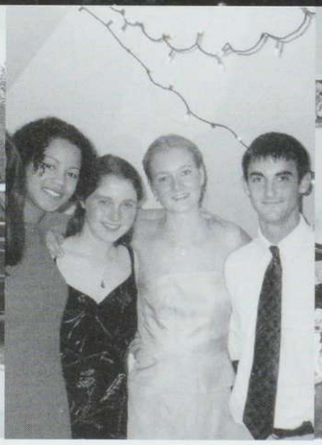
CHEERS, NATHAN!

With Finesse, Style,
and Excellence,
You walk well from Middlebury.

You shine in head and heart;
the path will rise to meet your feet.

Always,
Your Proud and Loving Family





"We cannot tell the precise moment when friendship is formed. As in filling a vessel drop by drop, there is at last a drop which makes it run over, so in a series of kindnesses there is at last one which makes the heart run over."

--James Boswell

Ali, your college career has been filled with drops of kindnesses that have endeared you to many. Not only have you grown in knowledge, spirit, and understanding, but most importantly, in the wonderful relationships you have with your many friends.

To you and your friends at Middlebury, may we pass along to you the words of President McCardell:

"May you be reminded of those things in your own Middlebury experience that are not only pleasant in memory, but also timeless. And may you return to campus as often as you can to rekindle old memories, and create new ones."

Wishing you timeless memories and promises to create new ones. Middlebury College will always have a special place in your heart as you do in ours. We are so proud of you--congratulations!

Much love,
Mom, Dad, Ryan, and Chris

CONGRATULATIONS, MATT!

It seems like only yesterday you went off on your first day of kindergarten and now you are graduating from college.

Watching you enjoy the past four years at Middlebury has been wonderful.
You have grown into an extraordinary young man with qualities that will bring you lots of love and success.

May the wisdom and adventures
you encountered stay with you forever.

Watashitachi wa sugoku arigatai

We love you very much,

Mom, Dad, and Mike

CONGRATULATIONS
to the
BUNKHOUSE GANG!

THE WORLD AWAITS YOU . . .

Dear Ami,

There are so many paths in life that you can take. We trust that you will choose the path that has a heart for you. We respect and admire you. We love you so.

Mom, Dad, Kevin, and Matt

Margs

You grow more beautiful to us with every passing year. Congratulations on all that you have accomplished. We love you so much.

Dad, Mom, Kev, Hod, and Rippa

I remember when I first held you, 'twas if I held the whole world in my own hands. Now, it's been twenty-one years: don't they go by in a blink. Words cannot express how proud we are of you, Peach.

Love,

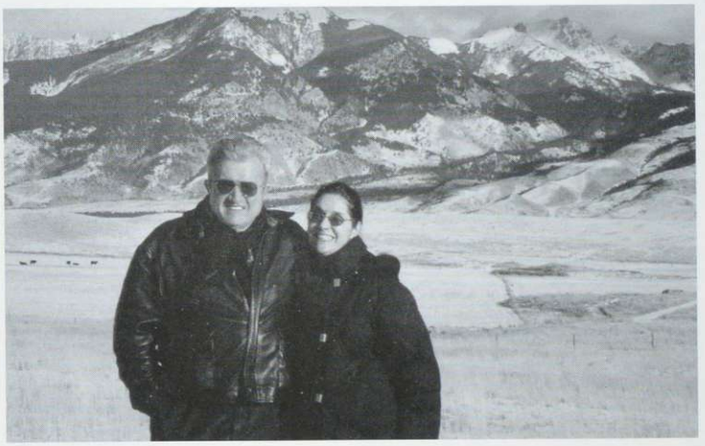
Mom, Pup, and Anth

Dear Daniela,

You have achieved a great deal during these past four years ad we are very proud of your accomplishments! May you take all that you have learned and loved at Middlebury to your next adventure in life.

All our love,

Mom, Dad, Robert, Peter, Matthew, David, and Jazzy!



Andrew,

When you fell you always got up, traveling upward and outward. Middlebury has been your home amid the mountains--not the last stop along the way, but one of your most memorable. Congratulations to you and your great friends. We wish you all health, happiness, peace of mind, and generosity of spirit as you continue your journey.

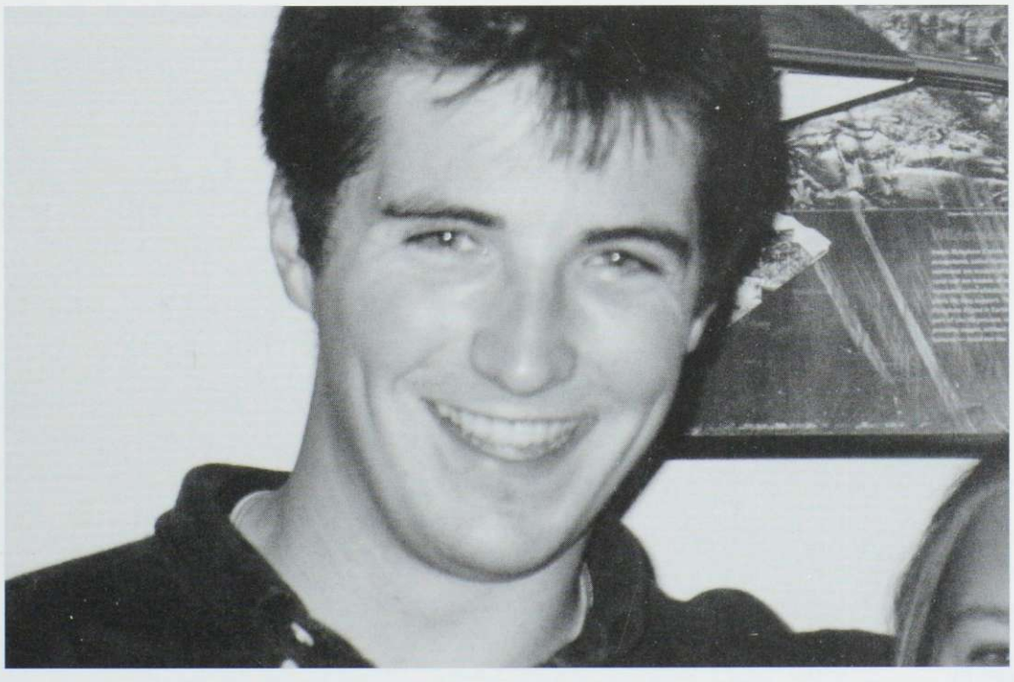
Love always,
Mom, Dad, and Catherine

Tim,

You have blessed our lives with more joy, love, and laughter than we could have possibly imagined. We treasure every moment of watching you grow into the wonderful person that you are. Your natural creativity and curiosity are an inspiration to all of us.

We love you,

Mom, Dad, Sarah, and Jeffrey



Dear Jose,

May you continue to strive for knowledge and wisdom, happiness and success.

We are very proud of you!

We love you, and may God always lead and bless your way.

Mom, Dad, Angel, Jose Luis and Juan

Our Midd Kidd has enthusiasm, determination, a spirit of adventure, and a twinkle in her eye. May these traits and the many wonderful friendships you have made stay with you always. We are so proud of you.

Love,

Mom, Dad, Piper, and Snowflake

Dear Evan,

You' re a funny guy! A great son. A wonderful brother. Hope your future's so bright you have to wear shades!

Love,
Mom, Dad, & Nat

Andrea,

You have thanked us so many times and now we would like to thank you. We are proud of who you are and what you have accomplished in the three-and-a-half years at Middlebury. Your smile, kind heart, many talents, and knowledge will follow you throughout life. You are special . . . you are our "Rainbow Baby."

Love,

Mom, Dad, and Kristina

Mootsie,

Congratulations for a wonderful achievement. We will all be next to you for what lies ahead in your life. Always remember, you are the best! You are a winner!
We love you with all our hearts,
Dad, Mom, Thanassi, Stephie, Cosmas, and Elina

TODD

Our family has celebrated so many events over the years and our closeness has only grown. Now, we are all so proud of you having accomplished yet another of your goals, and we look forward to sharing many more times together.

Love,

Dad, Mom, Melissa, Jeff and Zack

" Go confidently in the direction of your dreams. Live the life you've imagined."
- Henry David Thoreau

Laura,
You've brought us such great joy! As you go forward, take with you your strong determination, intellectual talents, and kind heart. Much love and happiness as you embark on a wonderful journey.

Love from Mom, Dad, and Matt

With style and grace and a wonderful, winning smile...
Congratulations, Gillian! Love, Dad and Mom

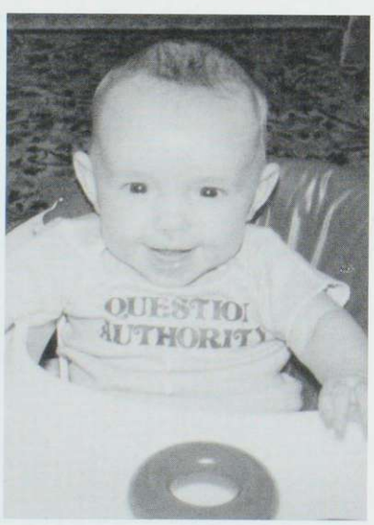
Almost grown-up!

Congratulations,
Margot!

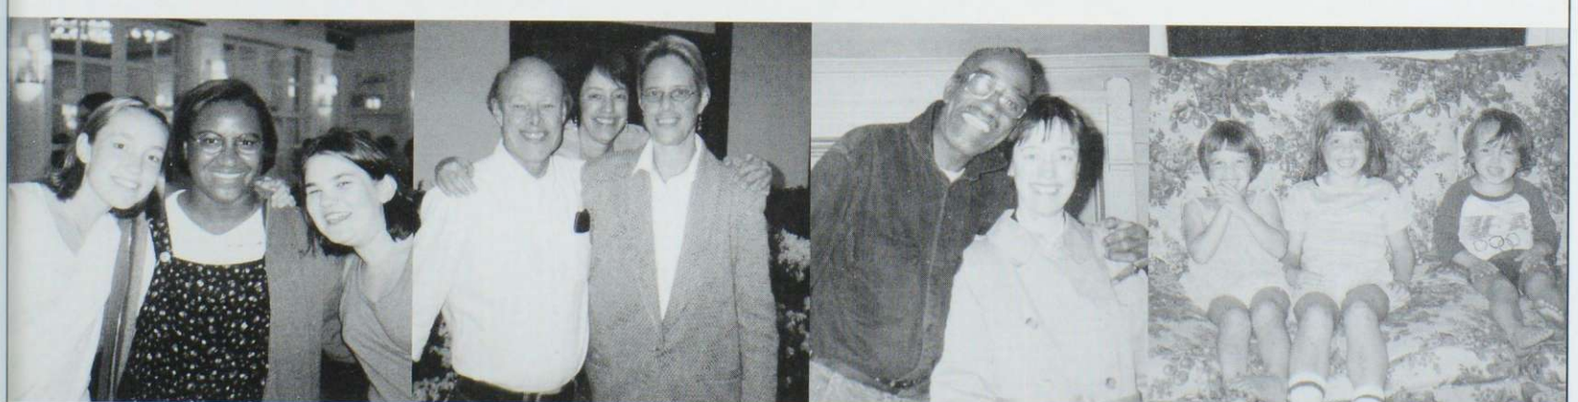
Love,
Mom, Dad, Julia
and Dan

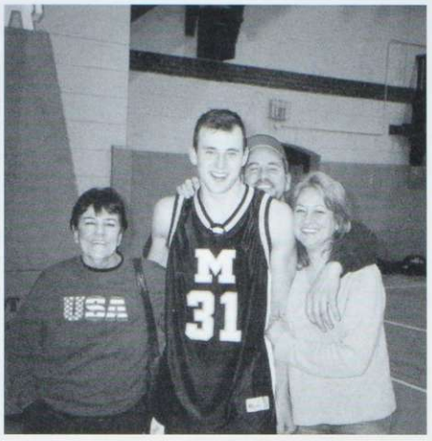
Take care of each other!

Keep doing what makes you happy!



Love, Mom and Dad





Minute-by-minute, dad-by-day, year-by-year, we have watched you grow from a giggly little boy to a wonderful young man.

You have exceeded all of our expectations of what we dreamed you would become.

We are so proud of you.

Love,
Mom, Uncle Dino, Grandma and Grandpa

NO HAZMATS!

Gotcha!
The love is on.

Dear Lawrence,
You are and always will be the joy and pride of our life.
May God bless you always.
